Founder & Family

Daniel, Karen,
Nathan & Abby Evans

Daniel Evans and his wife Karen have organized and participated in various events helping internationals understand and be an integral part of the American culture since 1986. Daniel lived in the southern part of China for 8 years, so he loves and understands the Chinese culture. He has made many Chinese friends who are living all over China and still remains friends with many. For the past 12 years, Daniel and Karen have developed different programs to help international students attending the University of Texas understand the American culture. Many international students have lived with the Evans family as well. The Evans discovered that students who lived with them increased their understanding of the American culture, language skills, and most importantly, enjoyed developing their friendship. This led to their desire to provide an opportunity for more students. The idea behind the American Academy of Culture is to provide a learning experience in a family atmosphere. They believe in "Learning through Experience in the Context of Relationship." The Evans will treat your child as one of their own and your child will have a one in a life time experience of being a part of an American family, which may benefit his/her future study and life.
